Dearest darling,

I got a lucky break yesterday. I'm getting a week's vacation. The division has what they call a rest camp here in the mountains. There is a good sized lake that looks to me about the way a Norwegian fjord would look. It's not very wide, but it curves and stretches between these hills for about twelve miles. This rest idea is a big joke as we haven't had it very tough, but it's nice to get away from all that chump stuff for a week. Everyone gets a chance to come out here, and it doesn't count as furlough or lots of mail waiting for me.

I sure hope so.

Baby dear I love you so very much. I'm just existing till that happy day when I can hold you in my arms, and never let you go. Every day that passes is one closer to that good one, Sweetie.

Since I've been using the typewriter my hand writing sure has gotten poor. It never was too good. Maybe I should practice more, but it's so much easier pass time.

I haven't heard a radio since Friday nite, but I've heard lots of rumors that the war is over.
I'm certainly thankful for that.
Sure hope it doesn't take long for them to get me back into civilian life.

It rained like mad yesterday,
but the sun is out this morning.
I hope it's a good week. They have canoes and kayaks, and I'd like to get in a little swimming.

Maybe when I get back to the company next Saturday I'll have just to tap those Keys.

This is a poor excuse for a letter honey, but there isn't much news to write. I'll try to do better next time tho'.

I'm enclosing millions of hugs and kisses, and all my love.

Your own,
Jack
